Takeout vs. Leftovers

A FINE LINE

The first step toward any successful to-go service is to understand the difference between takeout and leftovers. Takeout is a fully prepared meal that is ordered remotely by phone or online and then picked up by customers.

Since takeout is typically consumed fresh, your packaging should be tamper-evident and properly retain temperatures and crispness while also being attractive and showcasing your brand.

On the other hand, leftovers typically consist of meals consumed in-house, with any unfinished food being packaged and then taken home for consumption at a later time. Packaging for leftovers should be strong, secure and resistant to leaks but does not have to be overly flashy in appearance.

When you have the right type of takeout container for your establishment, you'll be able to showcase your brand in a way that stands out to your customers while also being able to make sure their food is delivered safely. Not only that, you'll enjoy cost savings as well as attract more business to your establishment with your unique style while also reducing food waste!

COMPOSTABLE PRODUCT LIFE CYCLE

FACTS & TRENDS

By using a complete suite of compostable food serviceware, not only can contamination be mitigated as consumers are able to easily dispose of food and packaging together, compostable packaging can help deliver maximum food scraps to compostables bins. In addition, you can reduce the amount of food that ends up in landfills which will result in lower methane and greenhouse gas emissions.

30%-50% diversion rate by recycling only

55%-65% diversion rate with recycling and BOH composting

>80% diversion rate with recycling, BOH composting and FOH composting with compostable products

Diversion Rate - Recyclable and compostable material diverted from the landfill compared to the total amount of waste material generated.

Snooze needed a product for their take-out pancake flights. A flatbread pizza clamshell with a couple of tweaks did the trick - pancakes stay fluffy and don't get soggy in transit. They also opted to custom print the top with their signature orange, adding further distinction to their packaging.

Custom Product Development

Go beyond simple customization. Fulfill your packaging and branding needs in ways custom printed items cannot with custom shapes from Eco-Products. ## Determine the Correct Size

The most common problem is using a bag that does not fit your trash receptacle properly. If you have ever had to knot or band the bag to make it fit, you are probably using too much bag for the job.

The easiest solution is to use DON Surefit™ Trash Liners. They are designed to fit specific waste receptacles such as Slim Jim or Brute and eliminate the need for measuring or tying off bags to make them fit. See sizing diagrams at left.

don Surefit™ Recycled Low-Density Trash Liners

- Makes use of economy-blend and linear low-density recycled resins
- Designed to fit today's popular foodservice receptacles
- Convenient flat pack dispenses one bag at a time
